

color study

#014

Continuing into my "summer into fall" series, here I'm showing a brighter take on the transition. The warmth of the summer sun is still prevalent in the day but there's a crisp morning air that is cool and refreshing. This palette is lively, energetic and loaded with possibilities. Try it in a masculine version by using the brown in a greater quantity or "girl it up" by adding in this bright, clear pink hue.

Wouldn't it be fun to do a room in this palette? Base it around a nice neutral like the soft beige shown above and use the strong colors as accents. Try this palette out and send me example, I'll show it on my blog.

This is a monthly series of color palettes offered to you for your crafting projects. You can cut these out and use them however you wish, as long as it is for non-commercial purposes. Enjoy!
